BRADLEY T. JOHNSON.

All old Confederates and thousands of other good citizens of Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina will grieve to hear of the death of General Bradley T. Johnson, which occurred yesterday.

The General came to the help of the South at the beginning of the war, at the head of a company organized by him in Frederick, Md., and which later on became a part of the gallant band known the The Maryland Line. By successive degrees, and on account of fearlessness in action and the display of fine qualities as a leader, he rose to the rank of

In the battle reports of those stirring times, his name repeatedly appears with honorable mention. He was distinguished not only for courage, but for vigor and sagacity. Stonewall Jackson was one of several commanders who from time to time, cordially recommended him for

President Davis, in his book descriptive of the rise and fall of the Confede racy, makes special mention of General Johnson's work in pursuing the Dahl-

With a pitifully small force, he hung upon Dahlgren's rear and harrassed his every movement. At another time, Gen-Johnson was commandant of the military prison at Saulsbury, N. C .- a difficult position which he filled well,

The war over, General Johnson settled in Richmond and practiced law here with much success. He was made colonel of the First Regiment, and was foremost in enterprises calling for the exhibition of iberality and public spirit. In time politics began to engross much of his attention, and he was prominent in some exciting campaigns and acrimonious news-Council and as a member of the State Scnate, having been elected to the latter position after a memorable contest with

Colonel William C. Knight. After his Senatorial term had expired General Johnson removed his residence from Richmond to Baltimore and practiced law there for some years. He was in politics, too, to some extent. Then he returned to Virginia, taking up his resiowned a big plantation, on which there is a spacious mansion dating back to long past days. Theneforth, until overtaken by ill health, the General's life was spent in reading and writing, in entertaining visitors and in travel. He did a good deal in the way of historical contributions, dealing to some extent with the Revolu-Confederacy, of which he had a rich

General Johnson was a man of marked ability. His mind was active and acute, self most, he loved politics best. His interest in politics began in his boyhood end, though of late years he had been a looker-on only.

The General's death occurred at the preceded him to the grave some years ngo. Here in Richmond there are hundreds who will always treasure the memories of these two good people-the one a gallant and lovable man, the other a sweet type of high womanhood.

WORK FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. William H. Tolman, wife of the pany with her husband, through Europe last summer to study sociological form, questions, and in talking with a reporter of the New York Tribune upon her arfor Self Supporting Women in Paris. She did not care to make odlous comparisons and did not mean to ildealize the French woman, but she felt constrained to point to French institutions of this class as models for American initiation. "I cannot say too much in their praise," said she," and I do not know of any more useful or beautiful work that American similar homes for the young women of much-needed cleaning?

their numbers, there is scarcely a social problem in the opinion of Mrs. Tolman,

In describing this home or club, which she visited in Paris, she said that "It was surrounded by a beautiful garden, about 100 feet by 75, and the walls were covered with ivy. It had single bedrooms, with hot and cold water and electrie light, and though baths are at a premium in Europe, there were three in the house, no extra charge being made for them except the amount of the water rates. There was a beautiful tea room, where the girls entertain their friends of both sexes, and dances, at which men are also received are given frequently. These functions are always attended by the managers, not apparently because they think it their duty to be present, but because they enjoy it- and that notwithstanding the fact that the best society of Paris is open to "The doors of the club are not closed at 10 o'clock. When returning from the opera or theatre it is only necessary to ring the bell to be admitted by the porter, and the affair causes no more comment than if the girl were returning to her own home. In fact, the place is her home, and to me it seemed like fairyland. Such institutions are to be found all over France, and are carried on without the slightest ado and fuss such as often characterizes undertakings of this kind.

"Besides providing this pleasant home for those who are able to pay for it, this stitution also gives shelter, without charge, to those who are temporarily without means. It provides tideover work, and conducts an excellent employment bureau. It has been in operation for seven or eight years and is entirely the

Our Young Women's Christian Association of Richmond is doing a work similar to this, although for the lack of means the home is not so attractive as the Paris home which Mrs. Tolman describes. But this institution is a Godsend to many a homeless girl in Richmond, and it deserves the cordial support of the community.

THE PENSION SYSTEM.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that there are petty persons who are forever snarling about the cost of pensions. "The United States," it adds, "is paying pensions to nearly a million citizens, as an act of simple justice, not of liberality. Pensions embrace men who responded in their early manhood to the government's call for soldiers to save the Union. They succeeded in that large undertaking, taking all the risks of four years of war in its deadliest forms. No pension will ever requite them."

If pensions were given only to th who fought faithfully in the Northern armies, there would be no complaint and no cause for complaint. But the Globe-Democrat knows and everybody knows that bountles have been given by the million to undesedving men, to those who were mere camp followers, to those who never rendered an honest day's service to fraudulent attorneys who trumped up

The pension system at best is dangerou and un-American. Our government was founded upon a very different principle, dependent, self-reliant men. The pension system tends to make men dep upon the bounty of government rather than upon their own exertions, and tends to destroy, rather than to build up American manhood, of which we boast. It is take care of its worn-out and destitute veterans, who honestly consecrated their lives to the service of the government But care should be exercised always to discriminate in favor of these against mere pretenders, and especially to dis-courage the pension idea. The American who is not self-reliant is not a true

Much Interest in Services Being Held by the Clericus.

The tent mission in the far East End, being conducted under the auspices of the Episcopal Clericus, was opened last night under the most favorable auspices.

A large tent has been erected at Twenty-eighth and N Streets and services will be held each night for the next two or three weeks. Every indication points to a most successful revival. The services are under the immediate charge of the Rev Robert A. Goodwin, of St. John's, and the Rev. G. Otis Meade, of Christ Church, their churches being the nearest to the field of work. The singing each night will be a special feature.

ing committed a forgery, the grand jury of that tribinal having found a true bill against him on yesterday.

It was the opening of the October term of the court and the grand jury did but little beyend dealing with the case of Barraud. The Richmond lawyer, who has been absent from the city for some weeks, is charged in the indictment with having forged the name of R. B. Daniel, of Pleasant Hill, N. C., to a deed of trust conveying property at Seventh and Frank-lin Streets to Julien Wilson, trustee, and in consequence of such deed, it is further alleged that Barraud secured the sum of S,000 from Aldermen Henry P, Beck. A copy of the deed accompanies the indictment. The authorities here are still in ignorance of the whereabouts of Barraud, although he has been indicted.

The only other interesting case disposed of by the grand jury was that of W. A. Edwards, of Goochland county, against whom a true bill was found ont the charge of having thrown carcasses of dead animads into James River, 'above the source of the city's water supply. The grand jury was discharged for the term and the court will hear cases on their regular order on the docket to-day.

New Henrico Committee Wil' Meet on Saturday.

INTEREST'G POSSIBILITIES

Something May Turn Up in Connection With Question of Planning for the Campaign—Two Candidates for Chairman.

Considerable interest is manifested in the meeting of the new Henrico Democratic Committee which, in pursuance of a call issued yesterday, will meet Saturday next at noon at the courthouse.

In view of the present disturbed state of the county politics , and more particularly in view of the question of jurisdiction raised in connection with the old committee that adjourned last Saturday after an eventful session, the first gathering of the new committeemen elected in the late primary, is of very special in the late primary, is of very special interest. There may be some further developments of importance, though the information of this point at the present time is by no means definite.

MAY BE DEVELOPMENTS.

It will be recalled that in making his recent fight for recognition as the party nomines Mr. Brauer, through his attorneys, questioned the authority of the old committee, holding that they were out neys, questioned the authority of the old committee, holding that they were out of office, and that the new committee just chosen was the proper and lawful one. The old committee, however, did not think so, and proceeded with the work before it. It adjourned sine die last Saturday, and thus practically put an end to its existence after it had turned Brauer down, and issued the certificate to Todd. Chairman Ruffin now calls for the new committee to meet next Saturday and organize. The affairs of the priday and organize. The affairs of the pri-mary have been settled and this he holds to be the proper time for the new com-mittee to go into office.

With the meeting of the new committee, however, there is a possibility of the re-wivel of the old questions. Chairman Ruf-fin thinks there will be nothing of this sort, but admits that he can only express his personal views on the subject. There are a number of new men on the committee and when the question of arranging for the general election campaign comes up there may be an explosion of some sort. According to the old committee, Todd is the party nominee, and so far as county politics is concerned it is up to the committee to try to elect him. But to do this it will have to fight Brauer whom the State Committee has recognized, and some of the new committeemen may balk at this. One or two of the old Brauer men are still on it, and are almost certain to object. Here will be another nice question, and before it is settled there is likely to be some pretty lively discussion.

There will be two candidates for the county chairmanship. Mr. Ruffin will county chairmanship. Mr. Ruffin will stand for re-election and Mr. Edward L. Ryan, a young lawyer, who is just be-ginning to figure in county pollities, will also be a candidate. A committeeman will also have to be chosen for West-bampton precinct that failed to elect in the recent primary. The other mem-bers of the new committee are as fol-lows:

bers of the new committee are as follows:
Hardin's Shop—E. S. Kellam. Ridge Church—L. P. Michaels. Carter's—John Archer. Shumaker's—E. L. Ryan. Chestnut Hill—T. C. Ruffin. Bruin's—Joseph A. Johnston. Jones'—Louis Meyer. Whitlock's—W. F. ALL ARE NOW IN.
All of the candidates in the recent primary have now come forward with they statements of expenses, together with the oaths that they have neither directly nor indirectly violated any of the provisions of the Barksdale law, either in letter or in spirit. There was another large congregation iast night—an especially large one for Monday night. Rev. Mr. Lake preached an earnest and tender sermon on Pentecost. The discourse made a profound impression. There was one conversion, and much interest was manifested.

The services will continue through the week. The song service, led by an excellent choir of 25 voices, begins promptly at 8 o'clock.

A Pretty Play,

A pretty, quiet play, with a delightful atmosphere, and a delicate touch of humor, was "The Professor's Love Story," as William Professor's Love Story, as touch at the Academy last pight by Mr. Harry Beresford and a most capable supporting company. The play appeals to those who enjoy a comedy, the lines and situations of which never jostle, but run as quietly and as smoothly as the most plated waters.

The climax of the last act was unique, and suggested in its window scene, "The Little Minister," though its treatment was different.
